I. Introduction/Overview/Philosophy

The AP Spanish Language and Culture course is a rigorous course taught exclusively in Spanish that requires students to improve their proficiency across the three modes of communication (Interpersonal, Interpretive, and Presentational) defined in the Standards for Foreign Language Learning in the 21st Century and described in more detail in the ACTFL Performance Descriptors for Language Learners. The course focuses on the integration of authentic resources including online print, audio, and audiovisual resources; as well as traditional print resources that include literature, essays, and magazine and newspaper articles; and also a combination of visual/print resources such as charts, tables, and graphs; all with the goal of providing a diverse learning experience. Students communicate using rich, advanced vocabulary and linguistic structures as they build proficiency in all modes of communication. Central to communication is the following premise from the Curriculum Framework: When communicating, students in the AP Spanish Language and Culture course demonstrate an understanding of the culture(s), incorporate interdisciplinary topics (Connections), make comparisons between the native language and the target language and between cultures (Comparisons), and use the target language in real-life settings (Communities).

II. Objectives

Course Outline:

1. Description of Units

The course is divided into six thematic units which are further based on recommended contexts and guided by essential questions. Corresponding cultural elements are integrated into the study of the units, and activities are directed with those cultural connections in mind. Discussion of the topic completely in Spanish is a requirement for this course. It is assumed that students have previously been exposed to advanced language structure in the courses leading up to AP Spanish Language and Culture course; however, review of the mechanics is done within the contextual framework of each unit as needed.

Thematic Units:
Families and Communities, Science and Technology, Beauty and Aesthetics, Personal and Public Identities, Global Challenges, and Contemporary Life.

These units are totally organized and based on the themes, recommended contexts, and essential questions of the Curriculum Framework, as well as focusing on integrating the six primary learning objectives of effective communication as preparation for the AP Exam in May.

In addition, culture is central to content as we explore products, practices, and perspectives of various countries. Students are guided to develop a deeper understanding of what the people of a particular culture believe and how they view the world. They also make constant comparisons between Spanish-speaking communities of the world and their own home culture in preparation for the presentational speaking exam task.

Basic Unit Design

The developed design and organization is based on TEMAS, a new program from Vista Higher Learning, which is totally built on authentic resources that not only provide the major content of the thematic units and contexts within each, but which also present students with a plethora of cultural content through which to explore products, practices, and perspectives of the Spanish speaking world. TEMAS is the primary resource or anchor for the course, very aligned and written in concert with the guidelines and explanations in the Curriculum Framework. All units begin with Preguntas esenciales and are also structured to include six contextual lessons, each reflecting a recommended context of the Curriculum Framework. By both starting and ending with the essential questions, backward design is easily accomplished.

8. Each contextualized lesson or Contexto includes:

- “Puntos de partida” (starting points) to activate prior knowledge and get students thinking about the context.

- Authentic “Lecturas” (reading selections) that include all genres, as well as maps, tables and graphs – Each is preceded by a “Desarrollo de vocabulario” (development of vocabulary) contextualized vocabulary preparation activities, a “Sobre la lectura” (about the reading) information section, “Estrategias” (strategies) for reading, “Antes de leer” (before reading) “Después de leer” (after reading) activities and assessments that present students with multiple opportunities to develop their interpretive, interpersonal, and presentational communication skills. Most authentic materials are accompanied by authentic photos and other graphics supporting comprehension.

- Authentic Audios that include interviews, narratives, and news reports – Each is proceeded by a “Palabras clave” (key words) contextualized vocabulary preparation activities, an “Introducción” (introduction) information section, “Estrategías” (strategies) for listening, “Antes de escuchar” (before listening), “Mientras escuchas” (while you listen) and “Después de escuchar” (after you listen) activities and assessments that present students with multiple opportunities to develop their interpretive, interpersonal, and presentational communication skills.

- “Conexiones culturales,” (Cultural connections) with more authentic resources and Websites for students to explore the context from the perspective of various Spanish-speaking communities of the world. A very important element of each of these sections is a “Presentación oral (oral presentation): comparación cultural” (cultural comparison) activity. that mirrors the new task on the exam itself and gives students many tools for comparing various aspects of target language communities and their own home community. These sections are rich in visuals to provide an even greater look into the culture.

9. Additional thematic units:

- “Léxico” (Vocabulary) sections that present students with thematic vocabulary appropriate to the context studied, through a meaningful, contextualized process.

Each includes: “Estrategias (strategies), Palabras clave (keywords), Sobre el corto (about the video), Antes de ver, Mientras miras and Después de ver” (before, during and after watching) activities and strategies that aid in comprehension and provide opportunities for practicing all modes of communication as students make connections to the theme.
- “Integración del tema” (Integration of theme), “ENSAYO” (Essays) section where students return to the “preguntas esenciales” (essential questions), think more deeply about the theme and topics explored, and research as necessary, in preparation for writing an essay. There is a different type of ensayo (essay) per theme such as: “Ensayo de comparación (comparative essay), Informe de investigación, Ensayo narrative (Narrative essay), Ensayo argumentative (Persuasive essay), and Ensayo de opinión” (Opinion essay). Each essay includes the 5 essential questions, an “Antes de escribir (before writing), Escribir el borrador (writing a draft), and Escribir la versión (writing the final version), as well as “Estrategias” (strategies) appropriate to the essay genre.

III. Proficiency Levels

The American Council on the Teaching of Foreign Languages (ACTFL) has developed the following generic guidelines for language proficiency in speaking, listening, reading and writing. The descriptions are intended to be representative of the ranges of ability, not exhaustive and all encompassing, and to apply to stages of proficiency, rather than to achievement within a specific curriculum.

Speaking
1. Novice
The Novice level is characterized by an ability to communicate minimally with learned material.
2. Novice-Low
Oral production consists of isolated words and perhaps a few high-frequency phrases. Essentially no functional communicative ability.
3. Novice-Mid
Oral production continues to consist of isolated words and learned phrases within very predictable areas of need, although quantity is increased. Vocabulary is sufficient only for handling simple, elementary needs and expressing basic courtesies. Utterances rarely consist of more than two or three words and show frequent long pauses and repetition of interlocutor’s words. Speaker may have some difficulty producing even the simplest utterances. Some Novice-Mid speakers will be understood only with great difficulty.
4. Novice-High
Able to satisfy partially the requirements of basic communicative exchanges by relying heavily on learned utterances but occasionally expanding these through simple re-combinations of their elements. Can ask questions or make statements involving learned material. Shows signs of spontaneity, although this falls short of real autonomy of expression. Speech continues to consist of learned utterances rather than of personalized, situationally adapted ones. Vocabulary centers on areas such as basic objects, places, and most common kinship terms. Pronunciation may still be strongly influenced by first language. Errors are frequent and, in spite of repetition, some Novice-High speakers will have difficulty being understood even by sympathetic interlocutors.
5. Intermediate
The Intermediate level is characterized by an ability to create with the language by combining and recombining learned elements, though primarily a reactive mode; initiate, minimally sustain, and close in a simple way basic communicative tasks; and ask and answer questions.
6. Intermediate-Low
Able to handle successfully a limited number of interactive, task-oriented and social situations. Can ask and answer questions, initiate and respond to simple statements, and maintain face-to-face conversation, although in a highly restricted manner and with much linguistic inaccuracy. Within these limitations can perform such tasks as introducing self, ordering a meal, asking directions, and making purchases. Vocabulary is adequate to express only the most elementary needs. Strong interference from native language may occur. Misunderstandings frequently arise, but with repetition, the Intermediate-Low speaker can generally be understood by sympathetic interlocutors.

7. Intermediate-Mid
Able to handle successfully a variety of uncomplicated, basic and communicative task and social situations. Can talk simply about self and family members. Can ask and answer questions and participate in simple conversations on topics beyond the most immediate needs: e.g., personal history and leisure-time activities. Utterance length increases slightly, but speech may continue to be characterized by frequent long pauses, since the smooth incorporation of even basic conversational strategies is often hindered as the speaker struggles to create appropriate language forms. Pronunciation may continue to be strongly influenced by first language and fluency may still be strained. Although misunderstandings still arise, the Intermediate-Mid speaker can generally be understood by sympathetic interlocutors.

8. Intermediate-High
Able to handle successfully most uncomplicated communicative tasks and social situations. Can initiate, sustain, and close a general conversation with a number of strategies appropriate to a range of circumstances and topics, but errors are evident. Limited vocabulary still necessitates hesitation and may bring about slightly unexpected circumlocution. There is emerging evidence of connected discourse, particularly for simple narrative and/or description. The Intermediate-High speaker can generally be understood even by interlocutors not accustomed to dealing with speaking at this level, but repetition may still be required.

Listening
These guidelines assume that all listening tasks take place in an authentic environment at a normal rate of speech using standard or near-standard norms.
1. Novice-Low
Understanding is limited to occasional isolated words, such as cognates, borrowed words, and high-frequency social conventions. Essentially no ability to comprehend even short utterances.
2. Novice-Mid
Able to understand some short, learned utterances, particularly where context strongly supports understanding and speech is clearly audible. Comprehends some words and phrases from simple questions, statements, high-frequency commands, and courtesy formulae about topics that refer to basic personal information or the immediate physical setting. The listener requires long pauses for assimilation and periodically requests repetition and/or a slower rate of speech.
3. Novice-High
Able to understand short, learned utterances and some sentence-length utterances, particularly where context strongly supports understanding and speech is clearly audible. Comprehends words and phrases from simple questions, statements, high-frequency commands, and courtesy formulae. May require repetition, rephrasing, and/or a slowed rate of speech for comprehension.
4. Intermediate-Low
Able to understand sentence-length utterances which consist of re-combinations of learned elements in a limited number of content areas, particularly if strongly supported by the situational context. Content refers to basic personal background and needs, social conventions, and routine tasks, such as getting meals and receiving simple instructions and directions. Listening tasks pertain primarily to spontaneous face-to-face conversations.
Understanding is often uneven; repetition and rewording may be necessary. Misunderstandings in both main ideas and details arise frequently.

5. Intermediate-Mid
Able to understand sentence-length utterances which consist of re-combinations of learned utterances on a variety of topics. Content continues to refer primarily to basic personal background and needs, social conventions, and somewhat more complex tasks, such as lodging, transportation, and shopping. Additional content areas include some personal interests and activities, and a greater diversity of instructions and directions. Listening tasks not only pertain to spontaneous face-to-face conversations but also to short routine telephone conversations and some deliberate speech, such as simple announcements and reports over the media. Understanding continues to be uneven.

6. Intermediate-High
Able to sustain understanding over longer stretches of connected discourse on a number of topics pertaining to different times and places; however, understanding is inconsistent due to failure to grasp main ideas and/or details. Thus, while topics do not differ significantly from those of an Advanced-level listener, comprehension is less in quantity and poorer in quality.

Reading
These guidelines assume all reading texts to be authentic and legible.

1. Novice-Low
Able occasionally to identify isolated words and/or major phrases when strongly supported by context.

2. Novice-Mid
Able to recognize the symbols of an alphabetic and/or syllabic writing system and/or a limited number of characters in a system that uses characters. The reader can identify an increasing number of highly contextualized words and/or phrases including cognates and borrowed words, where appropriate. Material understood rarely exceeds a single phrase at a time, and rereading may be required.

3. Novice-High
Has sufficient control of the writing system to interpret written language in areas of practical need. Where vocabulary has been learned, can read for instructional and directional purposes standardized messages, phrases, or expressions, such as some items on menus, schedules, timetables, maps, and signs. At times, but not on a consistent basis, the Novice-High-level reader may be able to derive meaning from material at a slightly higher level where context and/or extra-linguistic background knowledge are supportive.

4. Intermediate-Low
Able to understand main ideas and/or some facts from the simplest connected texts dealing with basic personal and social needs. Such texts are linguistically noncomplex and have a clear underlying internal structure, for example, chronological sequencing. They impart basic information about which the reader has to make only minimal suppositions or to which the reader brings personal interest and/or knowledge. Examples include messages with social purposes or information for the widest possible audience, such as public announcements and short, straightforward instructions dealing with public life. Some misunderstandings will occur.

5. Intermediate-Mid
Able to read consistently with increased understanding simple connected texts dealing with a variety of basic and social needs. Such texts are still linguistically noncomplex and have a clear underlying internal structure. They impart basic information about which the reader has to make minimal suppositions and to which the reader brings personal interest and/or knowledge. Examples may include short, straightforward descriptions of persons, places, and things written for a wide audience.

6. Intermediate-High
Able to read consistently with full understanding simple connected texts dealing with basic personal and social needs about which the reader has personal interest and/or knowledge. Can get some main ideas and information from texts at the next higher level featuring description and narration. Structural complexity may interfere with comprehension; for example, basic grammatical relations may be misinterpreted and temporal references may rely primarily on lexical items. Has some difficulty with the cohesive factors in discourse, such as matching pronouns with referents. While texts do not differ significantly from those at the Advanced level, comprehension is less consistent. May have to read material several times for understanding.

Writing
1. Novice-Low
Able to form some letters in an alphabetic system. In languages whose writing systems use syllabaries or characters, writer is able to copy and produce the basic strokes. Can produce romanization of isolated characters, where applicable.

2. Novice-Mid
Able to copy or transcribe familiar words or phrases and reproduce some from memory. No practical communicative writing skills.

3. Novice-High
Able to write simple fixed expressions and limited memorized material and some re-combinations thereof. Can supply information on simple forms and documents. Can write names, numbers, dates, own nationality, and other simple autobiographical information, as well as some short phrases and simple lists. Can write all the symbols in an alphabetic or syllabic system or 50-100 characters or compounds in a character writing system. Spelling and representation of symbols (letters, syllables, characters) may be partially correct.

4. Intermediate-Low
Able to meet limited practical writing needs. Can write short messages, postcards, and take down simple notes, such as telephone messages. Can create statements or questions within the scope of limited language experience. Material produced consists of re-combinations of learned vocabulary and structures into simple sentences on very familiar topics. Language is inadequate to express in writing anything but elementary needs. Frequent errors in grammar, vocabulary, punctuation, spelling, and in formation of non-alphabetic symbols, but writing can be understood by natives used to the writing of non-natives.

5. Intermediate-Mid
Able to meet a number of practical writing needs. Can write short, simple letters. Content involves personal preferences, daily routine, everyday events, and other topics grounded in personal experience. Can express present time or at least one other time frame or aspect consistently, e.g., non-past, habitual, imperfective. Evidence of control of the syntax of noncomplex sentences and basic inflectional morphology, such as declensions and conjugation. Writing tends to be a loose collection of sentences or sentence fragments on a given topic and provides little evidence of conscious organization. Can be understood by natives used to the writing of non-natives.

6. Intermediate-High
Able to meet most practical writing needs and limited social demands. Can take notes in some detail on familiar topics and respond in writing to personal questions. Can write simple letters, brief synopses and paraphrases, summaries of biographical data, work and school experience. In those languages relying primarily on content words and time expressions to express time, tense, or aspect, some precision is displayed; where tense and/or aspect is expressed through verbal inflection, forms are produced rather consistently, but not always accurately. An ability to describe and narrate in paragraphs is emerging. Rarely uses basic cohesive elements, such as pronominal substitutions or synonyms in written discourse. Writing, though faulty, is generally comprehensible to natives used to the writing of non-natives.

IV. Methods of Assessment

Student Assessment
Assessment in second-language learning needs to operate at a number of different levels because of the many layers of skills and proficiencies that are being acquired, and that thus need to be assessed and evaluated. The types of assessment fall into three major categories:

- One-on-one assessment
- Group assessment
- Peer assessment
- Self-assessment
- Project-Based Assessments
- Benchmark Assessments
- Listening Comprehension
- Test and Quizzes
- Oral presentations
- Research projects
- Portfolio assessment—This is an ongoing interpretive communication assignment, entries turned in monthly and as previous summer work, which continuously supports all thematic units. It is a two part document. The first section of two pages with instructions, themes, contexts, and essential questions to consider; and the second part consisting of two log sheets on which to document their analysis and reflection. As such, students routinely connect to authentic resources outside the classroom that incorporate themes and recommended contexts, as well as pondering essential questions. Once the log sheets are returned, the interpretive assignment is extended to interpersonal face-to-face, whole class discussions to reflect further on the topics while integrating new vocabulary. This provides an extra opportunity for making cultural comparisons as we do in real-life when discussing world happenings and events.
- Students are required to engage in real-life activities outside the classroom to enrich their Spanish language and culture experiences and keep a log. They complete entries that interest them throughout the year for their Language and Culture Portfolio. Options include but are not limited to: attending an art exhibit, musical show or play; preparing a meal while following recipes written in Spanish; regular correspondence through email, Skype or FaceTime with heritage speakers in a Spanish-speaking country; viewing of important events involving target language speakers, such as a president’s acceptance speech or a national celebration of a country’s independence.

IX. Methodologies

Realizing that each student has a unique way of learning, it is important to vary teaching methods. Listed below are several different methods, which may be used in combination.

- Inductive Approach - A strategy that enables classroom instruction to be conducted in the target language, an inductive approach to grammar teaches concrete vocabulary through pictures and objects, while abstract vocabulary is taught by association of ideas.
- Natural Approach - A strategy that promotes communicative proficiency by providing real-world, authentic experiences and language experiences within meaningful contexts.
- Password/Language Ladders - A strategy in which students learn to speak sentences or phrases ("passwords") that are associated with desired activities.
- Gouin Series - A strategy in which students learn to use short sentences or phrases to describe a logical sequence of actions that take place in a specific context that is familiar to the student.
- Dialogue Journals - A strategy in which students use journals as a way to hold private conversations in the target language with the teacher. Dialogue journals are vehicles for sharing ideas and receiving feedback in the target language. The dialogue can be conducted by e-mail where it is available.
- Total Physical Response (TPR) - A strategy in which students respond with physical activity to an increasingly complex set of commands. The students’ response of physical activity signals their comprehension of the command. This is ideally suited for beginning foreign language students, but can be adopted and made more complex for higher-level students.
● TPR Story Telling- Based on the Natural approach, TPR Storytelling combines the effectiveness of TPR with the power of story-telling. TPR Storytelling teaches students to use the vocabulary they have learned in the context of entertaining, content-rich stories. Language production goes beyond the imperative into the narrative and descriptive modes.

● Interviews- A strategy for gathering information and reporting.

● Cloze- Open-ended strategy in which a selected word or phrase is eliminated from a written or oral sentence or paragraph.

● Continuums- A strategy used to indicate the relationship among words or phrases.

● Interactive Language Tasks- A strategy in which at least two students work together to accomplish a meaningful target language activity.

● Cultural Presentations- A strategy for creating an exhibit that is focused on aspects of the target culture.

● The Learning Cycle- A sequence of lessons designed to have students engage in exploratory investigations, construct language and compare culture concepts to their own lives.

● Read and Retell- An all-purpose strategy that involves students retelling a passage in the target language as they remember it.

● Literature, History and Storytelling- A strategy in which the culture and history of another country is brought to life through literature, folktales, and folk songs.

● Cooperative Learning- A strategy in which students work together in small groups to achieve a common goal, while communicating in the target language. Cooperative learning involves more than simply putting students into work or study groups. Teachers promote individual responsibility and positive group interdependence by making sure that each group member is responsible for a given task. Cooperative learning can be enhanced when group members have diverse abilities and backgrounds.

● Brainstorming- A strategy for eliciting ideas from a group and communicating them in the target language in oral or written form.

● Problem Solving- A learning strategy in which students apply knowledge to solve problems.

● Reflective Thinking- A strategy in which students reflect on what was learned after a lesson is finished, either orally or in written form.

● Field Experience- A planned learning experience for students to observe, study, and participate in expressions of the target culture (s) in a setting off the school grounds, using the community as a laboratory.

● Free Writing- A strategy for encouraging students to express ideas by writing in the target language.

● Free Reading- A strategy for encouraging students to read in the target language.
