INTRODUCTION

The English 107/207 curriculum is designed to develop the ability of each student to read and write and to embrace critical thinking skills. The course meets the individual needs of the special education student as he/she prepares for future educational goals and challenges. A great deal of emphasis is placed on writing as a process and vocabulary enrichment. The literature portion of the course alternates each year between a focus on non-fiction texts and American literature. Students will be taught to analyze and predict aspects of the text. To encourage critical thinking, varied tools of learning will be incorporated. Technological materials including videos, computer programs, and audio equipment will be utilized.

To accomplish proficiency in the language area, students will be given opportunities to incorporate vocabulary and the writing process to convey their message. Throughout the course, students will be encouraged to use the concepts, themes, and activities to better comprehend themselves and their world. In addition, students will be preparing for the state standardized test.

This course fulfills the ninth grade and tenth grade requirements for English.

NEW JERSEY STUDENT LEARNING STANDARDS

The New Jersey Student Learning Standards define general, cross-disciplinary literacy expectations that must be met for students to be prepared to enter college and workforce training programs ready to succeed. The K–12 grade-specific standards define end-of-year expectations and a cumulative progression designed to enable students to meet college and career readiness expectations no later than the end of high school.

Students advancing through the grades are expected to meet each year's grade-specific standards, retain or further develop skills and understandings mastered in preceding grades, and work steadily toward meeting the more general expectations described by the standards.
